Presentation by Visiting Professor
Charles M. Balch, MD, PhD (h.c.)
Professor of Surgery
University of Texas Southwestern Medical Center

Stress, Burnout and Career Satisfaction Among American Surgeons
Recognizing the symptoms and avoiding the adverse consequences

Thursday, March 8, 2012 • 4:00 P.M.
Ross Heart Hospital Auditorium
452 West 10th Avenue
Columbus, Ohio

Telecast to: Wallace Auditorium at OSU Hospital East; Room 3000 Eye and Ear Institute; and Room 115 Biomedical Research Tower

Dr. Charles M. Balch has led a distinguished career as a clinical and academic surgical oncologist for the past 35 years and as a leading authority in both melanoma and breast cancer. He has also made significant contributions to laboratory research in tumor immunology and human T lymphocyte differentiation. Dr. Balch is generally regarded as one of the leading melanoma experts in the world. He has held major leadership roles involving clinical research in three comprehensive cancer centers (UAB, MD Anderson and City of Hope) and has also held leadership roles involving clinical research in cancer cooperative groups, NIH study sections, and in professional organizations.

The Ohio State University Medical Center, Center for Continuing Medical Education is accredited by the Accreditation Council for Continuing Medical Education (ACCME) to provide continuing medical education for physicians. The Ohio State University Medical Center designates this educational activity for a maximum of AMA PRA Category 1 Credits™. Physicians should only claim credit commensurate with the extent of their participation in the activity.